Dr. Greene's NERVURA
BLOOD NERVE REMEDY.

Makes Sick Women Well and Weak Women Strong.

Dr. Greene, of Temple St., Boston, Mass., is the most successful physician in the world in curing all forms of female weakness, chronic complaints and nervous diseases of women. His wonderful discovery, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, the result of years of investigation and practice, is the greatest health-giver and tonic for womanhood the world has ever known. It is not a haphazard preparation, put up by an irresponsible party, but is a skilled physician's prescription made to effect a sure and positive cure, and it will certainly cure you. Dr. Greene invites all women who have need of a physician's sympathy, advice and counsel, to write to him freely, fully and confidentially about their cases. There will be no charge what-so-ever in any case for such consultation and advice by letter or personally, and Dr. Greene will tell you just what to do to be cured.

Mr. Ada McIntosh, Lisbon Falls, Me., says:
"I take great pleasure in sending my thanks for that wonderful medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. I had been suffering with female weakness and nervous prostration caused by an operation I was obliged to have about two years ago (removal of the uterus), which left me in a terrible condition. I was in bed ten weeks with nervous prostration and could employ three different physicians, but they could give me no relief and I gradually grew worse until I was on the verge of insanity. I heard of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and decided I would give it a trial, and before I had taken the first bottle I felt a change for the better, and after taking two I felt like a new woman. I was at first unable to do my work, my nerves were so allured, but have improved so that I now do my work for me. I feel like a new woman, and have advised my friends who feel sick to try it by all means, as in my belief it is sure to cure."

QUEER PLACES IN MANILA.

Julian Trask's Travels Take Him Into Some Of Them.

He Makes a Sunday Morning Visit To The Chinese Quarters.

Interesting Letter From The Philippine Islands For The Herald.

NAVAL STATION, CAVITE, PHILIPPINE ISLANDS, Dec. 18, 1899.

Editor of the Herald.—Sunday is generally a quiet day in Manila when compared with the bustle of the week day, and with a friend, Chief Clerk Munchen of the naval station, the writer passed last Sunday within its limits. Business houses on the Escolta, which is the main thoroughfare outside the walled city, are mostly closed for the day, the only exception being the Indian ware store, which keeps open until noon. On the other streets, the Chinese keep open all day, and are always ready to do a bargain and the blithely smile that always greets the American from these smooth race celestial, makes one feel that they are not selling goods at cost. After making a few purchases, we walked through the slums of Manila, where we had only one thought, and that was that a good fire would be a blessing. Then we dropped into a Chinese restaurant, located in the second story of a building and there comfortably seated at two open windows, with Pabst and our cigars, viewed the ever changing scene on the street below and the building opposite. The retail traffic in Manila is, to a great extent, monopolized by the Chinese. Their shops are small and dingy, and are mostly grouped together. The Chinaman bookkeeper has the ancient "Abacus" which still serves him for reckoning. Another is ready at the counter to strike a bargain while three or four more lounge around the door like the Jew to tout for customers. Sometimes half a dozen of these stores have one proprietor, and if you fail to make the price to suit, you step into the next store only to get a passing glimpse of one of the clerks you saw in the other shop, and hear him give the price before offered. Then after several such experiences you get wearied and purchase, or go along in disgust.

THE AMERICAN BOOM.
There is not a street without Chinese dealers, but their principal center is the "Riosario," while the finest shops filled with every kind of goods to tempt the eye are generally kept by Spaniards or the Indian merchants. Prices have gone up since the advent of the American, and the average soldier, flush with money, and tired of carrying the big double dollars in his pocket, marks them as easy victims of the tradesman. We never see a Chinawoman. Their children are around the door, but the female form is always out of the way of the stranger's eye. Opposite where we sat was a Chinese name, and looking in to the rooms we hoped to see the fitting woman in her household work, but none greeted our eye. During working hours hundreds of Chinese coolies can be seen. They are half naked and can be seen running with a springy step in all directions with loads on their bamboo, or driving carts, while the natives propel themselves along with a spirit of ease and tranquility. In the doorways the native women are seen lazily enjoying a sleep on their bamboo spring bed, while many of those who hang around the doorway, or squat on the flagstones are combing each other's hair and picking out the vermin. Near the door are a few shelves with small assortments of bananas, cigars, betel nut and food of peculiar style they are ready to sell to customers.

A BIG BATCH OF MAIL.
The United States transport Tartar came yesterday and brought 371 bags of mail. Many of the Americans were pleased and some sad—some pleased because they heard from home, and others sad because they did not. We have since learned that 600 more bags were transferred en route, and that we shall get them in a few days. Since the order forbidding the arrival, departure or movement of troops, friends at home probably know more of what's going on here than we do, but we occasionally hear the boom of big guns and musketry across from the other shore, and know the boys are on deck. Lieut. Hill of Concord has so far recovered as to be in his own quarters in San Felipe, getting along nicely.

ACROSS THE RIVER.

Brief Notes From Kittery Gathered for Herald Readers Today.

Acting Carpenter Herbert G. Elkins, U. S. N., attached to the United States Receiving Ship Wash at the Charles-town navy yard, was united in marriage on Saturday evening to Miss Grace Drowne of Alfred, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. E. C. Hall, pastor of the Second Christian church, at the parsonage. The young couple have the best wishes of a host of friends.

The U. S. fish commissioners crew at Kittery Point are doing excellent work, and the season promises to be the most successful for years. So far this season some 60,000,000 cod eggs have been taken and shipped to the government hatcheries, and yesterday 7,000,000 more were taken and shipped.

It is said that the authorities will probably visit Kittery Point in the near future and investigate the character of a certain house there, which has a very unpleasant reputation among the respectable residents of that quiet little village. The attention of people was directed to the place last Sunday when disgraceful actions are said to have taken place there.

GREENLAND.

GREENLAND, Jan. 30.

Shortly after the forenoon session was called to order in the Northern school building yesterday morning, the teacher, Miss Lillian Chapman, discovered that the partition back of the stove was on fire and but for the strenuous efforts of the scholars and Frank D. Wentworth, a near by neighbor, without a doubt the building would now be a mass of charred ruins. As it is but very little damage was done, and wholly confined to a small space in the back part of the school room where the stove is situated. John P. Weeks, one of the school committee was immediately notified and soon had workmen at the school to repair the damage and hereafter iron will take the place of the old wooden and very unsafe partition.

The following is the tersely truthful weather report and conditions for this town yesterday: A. M., roaring rain, temperature, trying, wind, whirlwind, in the lowlands, lakes, roads, rivers, weather, vane, whirling, P. M. Colder than that long sought for north west passage.

Again this town is troubled as it has been several times lately by the ice freezing with the slippery side up. But never mind, July will thaw things out for us.

Notwithstanding the weather of yesterday several people from here visited Portsmouth.

The posters for the Grange entertainment Down East are out and are attracting considerable attention.

Some of our local agents have been much inconvenienced about the weather lately.

YORK.

YORK, Me., Jan. 29.

Friday evening at her late residence at York Harbor, occurred the death of Mrs. Nancy Lowe, aged 88 years. The deceased was a native and lifelong resident of York and leaves two sons, George and John, both of this town, two daughters, Mrs. J. P. Simpson, also of York, and Mrs. L. Vinal of Roslinville, Mass. Funeral services were held at the home Friday afternoon, Rev. C. C. Whidden, pastor of the Methodist church officiating.

Mrs. and Mrs. Fred L. Soper of Cambridgeport are visiting relatives at Cape Neddick.

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Circle will be held this afternoon and evening in the church parlors.

The members of the Junior Christian Endeavor society of the Congregational church will give a reception Wednesday evening in the chapel.

Mrs. Hannah Donnell celebrated her eightieth birthday anniversary on Saturday last. Many friends and relatives called during the day and she was the recipient of numerous gifts. Mr. Nat Donnell of Groveland, Mass., was among the out of town guests.

A subscription party will be given by the dancing contingent at the town hall Friday evening. It is proposed to make it a thoroughly informal affair.

THEATRICAL HAPPENINGS.

WIZARD OF SAG HARBOR.

One of the Clever Members Is Mr. William T. Hodge.

William T. Hodge, who has scored such a big hit as Freeman Whitmarsh, the comical painter and glazier, during the great run of Mr. Hodge's Sag Harbor at the Park theatre in Boston, is comparatively a new comer in the ranks of America's comedians; but it has not taken him long to jump into one of the very first places. Hodge is a veritable genius of comicality—a wizard of laughter. In the famous champagne scene of Sag Harbor, where Hodge as the country galoot becomes slightly intoxicated, his drollery is so complete and infectious as to make his auditors almost "split their sides" with laughter.

When Hodge as Whitmarsh says "I'll drink it myself—says the little red men," and later in his immensely funny first, but she feels herself drawn to him by his hypnotic power, and in spite of her natural inclination to repulse him, yields to his caresses. She tells her husband of the evil spell the man exerts over her, and to escape his designs the husband and wife leave their home in Venice and go to England.

Zillette follows them there, but a young English girl, Mary Talbot, becomes the object of his attention for a time. Zillette agrees to no longer pay his attentions to Bernardo's wife if the Italian will consent to impersonate a priest and marry him to Mary Talbot. To rid himself of his tormentor Bernardo accepts the proposition, but in less than a week Zillette has violated his obligations. Bernardo kills him and flees the country. The crime is charged to Reuben Clegg, a former suitor of Mary Talbot. He is sentenced to death.

Bernardo's wife lies dying and she compels him to confess his sin to a priest and make atonement for his crime. Bernardo, as a penance, is

STATE NEWS.

Those engaged in the pursuit of eel fishing on the Sympson river Sunday afternoon were filled with consternation, when John G. C. Lord, who is a special detective of the Fish and Game league, appeared on the scene and gave the fishermen peremptory orders to cease work at once, or he would have them summoned into court for breaking the laws.

John Walker of Newmarket was arrested Sunday for an alleged assault committed on William Small in the latter's store Saturday evening. He gave bonds for his appearance next Saturday.

A second death, resulting from measles, at the New Hampshire Orphans' home was reported last night, when an 8 months old baby succumbed to a severe attack of the disease. The epidemic is believed to have practically subsided, after a pretty thorough run among the small children. Previous to the death recorded in the nursery department last week, no serious illness had invaded the home for a long time. The last previous death was two years ago.

James Clarence Hildreth, editor and publisher of the Hollis Times, and one of the most prominent residents of that town, died suddenly at his home Saturday evening. He was born in Hollis, May 26, 1846, the son of Amos and Mary E. (Stearns) Hildreth, and lived there all his life. He is survived by an aged mother, a wife, one son and two sons. Though never physically strong, he was one of the most active and progressive citizens of the town.

Leone Dubois, of Somersworth, aged fourteen years, was struck by the 625 train going west Monday morning and instantly killed. The scene of the accident was on the railroad crossing leading to the mill yard gate opposite No. 3 mill, just above the residence of F. E. Lubbey, paymaster of the Great Falls Manufacturing company. The girl was an employee in the weaving department of No. 2 mill and was on her way to work.

The Unitarian society of Nashua has decided to extend a call to the Rev. Herbert H. Mott, at present the pastor of the Wayland, Mass., Unitarian church. Since the resignation of the Rev. Enock Powell went into effect, last September, the church has been without a pastor.

The C. E. Brewster company of Dover, capital stock $20,000, and the Farmington, capital stock $20,000, have filed articles of incorporation with the secretary of state. The latter association is organized for the promotion, growth and prosperity of the town of Farmington.

HAS SECURED A FINE POSITION.

William C. Cotton of this city has accepted a fine position with the American Shot and Lead company of St. Louis, Missouri, and leaves on Saturday for that city. Mr. Cotton will represent the company through the west and will travel most of the time. His many friends in this city will miss him greatly as he has been most prominent in club and social circles, but at the same time are confident of his achieving great success in his new field.

scene with the Widow Russell during the clam pie supper the rafters ring, it is said, with the laughter which he evokes.

Mr. Hodge can be said to be a discorery of James A. Hodge, who was first attracted to the young comedian in quite an accidental way by the cleverness of his "makeup" in a small part which he essayed last year in a stock company out in Cleveland. Hodge, by the way, is a natural master of the art of "make up"—when as "Whitmarsh" again he enters upon the scene in the third act of Sag Harbor his "make up" is so perfect as a country dandy aping Fifth avenue style that the audiences as one man accord him simultaneously with their laughter a tumultuous round of applause.

Many of Hodge's speeches in Sag Harbor have gone the rounds in Boston and are commonly heard in street conversations of the day. One line, "there is money into her," has also traveled to New York and is now heard up and down Broadway.

Sag Harbor will be seen at Music hall, on Thursday evening, Feb. 1.

EMINENTLY SUCCESSFUL.

The "Dagger and the Cross," is Fitted for Mr. Mantell's Powers.

Robert B. Mantell and a company of clever players will be at Music hall, next Friday evening, with a new production entitled The Dagger and the Cross. It is a dramatization of Joseph Hutton's novel by W. A. Tremayne, and is given in five acts. The production has been eminently successful, and Mr. Mantell has reason to be happy that he has obtained a play so well suited to his romantic style of acting, and containing so much interest that one's attention is held throughout the development of the plot.

Briefly, the story is as follows: Bernardo Bonibillan, an Italian painter, is tormented by the attentions paid to his beautiful young wife by Giovanni Zillette, sculptor and noted rogue. The young woman despises the man at directed to return to the scene of the murder and confess to the people his awful crime, and save the young Englishman from the death penalty. Holding in his hand the dagger with which he took Zillette's life, reversed as the sign of the cross, he makes his way back to England and there confesses his guilt. It is the time of the black plague, and he dies of the disease immediately afterward.

STARVING BY HUNDREDS

Terrible Conditions In the Copper River Country.

DRIVEN MAD BY SUFFERING.

Seventy Per Cent of the Miners in Valdez Have Lost Their Reason. Result of Survey For Trans-Alaskan Military Route.

Washington, Jan. 29.—The war department has made public an important report from Captain W. R. Abercrombie, Second infantry, who commanded the Copper river exploring expedition in Alaska last season. The chief topic treated in the report is the laying out of the great trans-Alaskan military route from Port Valdez, Alaska, to Port Egbert on the Yukon. While engaged in this work the officer was charged to take note of the mineral resources of the country, of its adaptability for agriculture and stock raising and the fuel and food products for man and animal.

Captain Abercrombie arrived in Valdez, the starting point of the expedition, on April 2, being received by a motley crowd which had just come across the Valdez glacier from the Copper river valley.

Hundreds Dying.
He found that hundreds of persons were dying from starvation and scurvy in the Copper river country. The people in Valdez were in a most pitiable condition, crowded in miserable huts like sardines in a box. "There were no facilities for bathing. Most of the sufferers had scurvy and not a few frost bitten hands and feet. The tops of old rubber boots and strips of gunny sack made shoes and socks for many of them. At least 70 per cent of the inmates of the huts were mentally deranged. This was common to those whom a fear of scurvy had driven over the glacier, where so many had perished by freezing to death.

Old railroad and trail builders were the men selected by Captain Abercrombie to build a military road, and they started from Valdez on April 29 and proceeded to the mouth of Keystone canyon. The harbor at Valdez, owing to the proximity of the Japanese current, is accessible at all seasons of the year to ships of any size. The only feasible site for a railroad terminal is a narrow strip of land three-quarters of a mile broad extending up the Love river about five miles and south of a small stream flowing from Robe lake. There is practically a nominal grade up the valley, passing through Keystone canyon with ordinary canyon work and emerging on the foot plain of the inner canyon basin.

Two Feasible Routes.
From that point there are two feasible routes, one east of Marshall pass, at the elevation of 1,700 feet, and down the Tassuna to the Copper River valley; the other turning north, crossing the mountain range and Thompson pass, 2,600 feet high, thence down the Tekhobli River valley through the swampy areas at the head of the Kura, thence down the Tassuna into the Copper River valley. Captain Abercrombie believes that the future for a railroad through this section of Alaska is promising, owing to the presence of large zones of heavily mineralized copper deposits, the development of which, he says, undoubtedly will yield a local tonnage of great volume. He says that the proximity of tie and bridge timber and the absence of any great engineering features would make railroad construction a comparatively easy problem.

Edward Gillette, a member of the expedition, contributes an important chapter to the report on the feasibility of establishing a practical railroad route up the Copper River valley. He draws a comparison between the route from Seattle to Skagway with the Valdez route, to the advantage of the last named. He shows that while the distance from Seattle to Skagway is 1,050 miles as against 1,250 miles from Seattle to Valdez, this difference is practically offset by the unimpeded passage of the outside route. Then vessels are not required to pass through 400 miles of water claimed by a foreign country, and Valdez is much nearer the center of Alaska than Skagway, being 200 miles nearer by railroad to the Forty Mile country.

Utter Man Accidentally Killed.
Utter, N. Y., Jan. 29.—Rees E. Thomas, a well known attorney of this city, was shot and instantly killed Saturday afternoon in the Adirondacks about 40 miles from this city by the discharge of a shotgun which he had been carrying. He was on a hunting trip with three companions, John G. Beltz of this city and Devellio Williams and Frank W. Smith of Moose River, when the fatality occurred. Mr. Thomas was prominent in the Masonic order and was a member of several other bodies. He leaves a wife and five children.

The Rush to Cape Nome.
Minneapolis, Jan. 29.—A special to The Times from Tacoma says that estimates made by local shipping men show that about 15,000 men are intending to reach Cape Nome by the first steamers from Puget sound and Lewiston. One-third of this number will go from Tacoma, Seattle and San Francisco, and the balance will go down the Yukon river from Dawson and other Yukon towns. A great prospective race is in sight between these two contingents.

Dead For Days In Saloon.
New York, Jan. 29.—A special to The World from Syracuse says: Lillian Newton was found dead last night in a small sitting room adjoining a saloon. For three days she had been there dead, the proprietor thinking she was intoxicated. Lillian Newton was the daughter of a physician who had a good practice in Syracuse years ago. She was about 35 years old and had gone from bad to worse.

Kuang-su's Death Announced.
Moscow, Jan. 29.—The Chinese legation at St. Petersburg has received by cable official notice that Emperor Kuang-su is dead and that his body is now lying in state. The ceremonial of the state funeral is fixed for Thursday, and the new heir to the throne will be proclaimed emperor at Peking Feb. 5.

Two Killed on the Wheeling.
Hongkong, Jan. 29.—While the United States gunboat Wheeling, now in Hong kong harbor, was saluting in honor of the German emperor's birthday a gun burst, killing Gunners Campbell and Nelson and seriously wounding Lieutenant Beatty and Gunners Courroy and Bile.

A 14-YEAR-OLD HERO.

Michael Stanko Given Up His Life to Save His Younger Brother.

Haverstraw, N. Y., Jan. 29.—Michael Stanko, 14 years of age, heroically gave up his life to save his 12-year-old brother Joseph from drowning in a clay bank here. The two lads were skating some distance apart when Joseph broke through the ice and with a scream disappeared. Michael skated over and, jumping in, grabbed the little fellow and held him until assistance came.

The place at which the accident occurred is so located that, owing to a steep embankment, although at least 20 persons witnessed the heroic act, no assistance could be given the boys until Robert McCoy came with a rope, which he tied around his own body and was lowered down and swung on the ice. After gaining the ice he found that he could not get near Michael, who was struggling with his little brother, who was then unconscious. McCoy took the rope from his own body and threw the end to the boy, telling him to hold fast and be drawn out. This the little hero did not do, but instead tied it around his brother and told them to take him out first, as he was almost dead. Before Joseph was handed up to the top of the bank Michael, who was completely exhausted, sank. The body was recovered in a few moments, but life was extinct.

Antigreen Goods Circulars.

New York, Jan. 29.—The United States government means to wage a war of extermination against the men in the green goods industry. Instead of decreasing the number of green goods men is growing larger. The campaign of rescue is to be managed by Fourth Assistant Postmaster General J. L. Bristow and W. E. Cochran, chief of the post-office inspectors in Washington. They have taken into their councils Chief Postoffice Inspector J. D. King of this city and M. C. Forness, who holds that position in Philadelphia. Antigreen goods circulars will be put out to counteract the influence of the green goods circulars and posted up in the various country post offices. Postmasters everywhere will be instructed to do educational missionary work in this direction. A rough draft of an antigreen goods poster has been prepared for wholesale circulation. The men fighting against the swindlers say that it will be difficult to do much until congress repeals the law under which the "one-on" is equally guilty with the swindler. It will be asked to do so.

Four Steamers Overdue.

New York, Jan. 29.—The steamship State of Nebraska of the Allan Star line, which left Glasgow on Jan. 10 via 25 stevedore passengers aboard, is now nearly a week overdue, and her failure to appear is causing some anxiety to the owners and agents and the friends and relatives of those aboard. The Elbing of the Anchor line is also about a week overdue, but her agents say they are no worried for the weather has been bad on the western ocean for the last week. The Normandie of the French line, with 23 stevedore and a number of saloon passengers, was due at her pier on Saturday but has not yet been sighted from Fir Island. The American line steamship St. Louis, which arrived here 20 hours over due, reached her pier last night after a most tempestuous voyage, in which she encountered tremendous head seas and heavy westerly gales.

Asphalt and Oil in Mexico.

City of Mexico, Jan. 29.—What is believed to be the best asphalt deposit in Mexico is about to be developed. It is situated near Tampico and is controlled by Mexicans who had refused offer from American contractors for operating. The deposits will be operated wholly by Mexicans. A strong combination of leading Mexican capitalists has acquired a large tract of oil producing land near the Pacific coast and is preparing for active operations. The oil is not suitable, according to tests, for illuminating purposes, but is excellently adapted for heating and for fuel and gas making. One plant of this oil will supply one horse power per hour. The supply of oil is said to be unlimited.

Captured by Cannibals.

Chicago, Jan. 29.—News has reached here of the capture of five officers of a Dutch mail steamer by the savages of New Guinea. It seems that they had imprudently landed on a remote part of the coast and were attacked by a party of natives. One of them was wounded and all were captured. A relief party which landed the next day following found the ashes of hostilities and traces which lead them to believe that all five had been killed and eaten by the savages. On the receipt of the news at the New Guinea capital word was sent to the nearest warship, and it is probable that a punitive expedition will be sent to the scene of the capture.

A Breeding Novelty.

A boy of 14 sends a story of a German, who, being pursued by a policeman, ran into the store of a friend, who was a caddy merchant, and hid himself in a bag. The policeman, coming in after him, knocked on all the bags and baskets to find out where he was. When he came to the bag where the German was hid, he knuckled and, not hearing the rattle of china, said: "The German must be in here, for if it was china it would go 'tinkle, tinkle.'" "Dingle, dingle," said the German inside.

The boy neglects to state whether or not the policeman was deceived.—San Francisco Argonaut.

MAY SURRENDER.

Report That Ladysmith Will Be Given Up.

Believed Useless For White To Try To Hold Out Longer.

LONDON STILL SMARTING UNDER THE REVERSE OF BULLER'S COLUMN.

LONDON, Jan. 29.—It is reported that Field Marshal Roberts, now in supreme command at the Cape, has advised the abandonment of Ladysmith.

This bears on the information cable on Saturday that the government might order the surrender of Gen. White's army in the interests of humanity and of policy.

If Ladysmith is to be abandoned by the army of relief, it is hard to see what General White can do but surrender. To cut his way out would be, military experts say, to sacrifice his men after a most heroic stand of months against an overpowering enemy.

Still, there is a wide section of the public which believes that White will cut his way through the Boers at all costs, destroying the guns and stores he cannot take with him.

At the war office no confirmation could be obtained of the advice said to have been given by Lord Roberts, and this report is cable with the reserve the now critical war situation demands.

It is frankly acknowledged that the most serious effort of the present war has dismally failed.

There is no sign of a wish on the part of the leaders of public opinion to disguise the ugly facts, but on the contrary, there is every disposition to face the full difficulties and discover the best way out. In short, the policy voiced everywhere is the gathering up of forces for more effective blows.

All hopes of the speedy relief of Ladysmith have been abandoned, and the consensus of expert opinion urges the immediate shifting of the theatre of war from the rocky kopjes of Natal to the open veldt of the Free State.

One thing appears certain—another long pause is inevitable, unless the Boers assume the offensive. Because, even in the event of General Buller further attempting to reach Ladysmith, the planning of a new move will necessarily occupy time.

Curiously enough, there is visible, especially in military circles, an undercurrent of relief at the news that the British are safely south of the Tugela, for the rumors of Saturday had conjured up visions of an immense catastrophe.

The afternoon papers are discussing whence are to come the troops for a protracted campaign. It is becoming generally recognized that some form of compulsory service is more imminent than previously thought of.

The queen's speech at the re-assembling of parliament tomorrow is awaited with unusual interest, in the expectation that a considerable increase in the naval and military expenditures will be necessitated by the lessons of the war and the altogether apart from the special war vote.

THEY ALL SAY SO.

Not Only in Portsmouth, But in Every City And Town in The Union.

If the reader took the time and trouble to ask his fellow residents of Portsmouth the simple question given below, he would obtain the one answer. If he would read the statements now being published in Portsmouth, which refer to this answer, it would surprise him to note that they number so many. As many more could be, and may be, published, but in the meantime ask the first person you meet what cures "backache?" The answer will be, "Doan's Kidney Pills." Here is a citizen who endorses our claim.

Mr. William R. Weston, of No. 1 Woodbury Ave., says:—"For a year or more I had kidney trouble, sometimes attacking me more severely than others. In every instance I had more or less dizziness, backache, headache, soreness over the kidneys, pains shooting up between the shoulders or down the thighs, and too frequent action of the kidney secretions. I read about Doan's Kidney Pills and I got a box at Philbrick's pharmacy, in Franklin Block. Well, they went right to the spot in 15 days. I never got anything to approach them. I can honestly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers; price 50 cents. Foster-McMillan Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no substitute.

A PERFECT HELL.

That Is What British Found On Spion Kop.

Boers Poured Murderous Fire From Maxims and Rifles.

MORTAL MAN COULD NOT HOPE TO HOLD SUCH A POSITION.

LONDON, Jan. 30, 2 A. M.—A dispatch from Frere camp, sent Friday, the 26th inst., gives further details of the fighting before and after the British occupation at Spion Kop, and says it was of the most desperate character. The western side of the Kop, directly opposite the outposts of General Warren's division, was almost inaccessible. Where the neck of the tableland joined the Kop, the Boers held a strong position. They occupied no less than thirty-five rifle pits and were able to pour in a terrible cross fire. A narrow foot path, admitting the British in single file only, was the sole means of approach to this position. The top of the tableland was probably 300 yards square. There the Boers had a traverse trench, and the British troops were exposed to a constant fire so long as they held the summit of the Kop. With rifles and machine guns, the Boers turned the hill into a perfect hell. Shells were continually bursting in the British ranks, and the rifle fire was appalling. General Warren hurried forward reinforcements, but they had to cross open ground that was literally torn up by the flying lead from the Boer guns. An unfinished trench afforded the British their only shelter on the Kop, and mortal man could not hope to maintain such a position long. General Warren's men did hold it, however, for twenty-four hours, and then, taking advantage of the dark night, evacuated it.

THE HERALD.

TUESDAY, JAN. 30 1900.

WHAT IS THOUGHT OF IT.

Editorial Opinions on the South African War.

Tolstoi says: "The Boer war shows that sordid commercialism rules the world." It doesn't, though. It only tries to.—Boston Globe.

The pictures of the Boer generals make them look like farmers, who would be picked up as easy victims by any bunco stealer, but their fighting certainly belies this look.—Newburyport News.

Several years ago Rider Haggard published a history in which he said there was room in South Africa for but one paramount power. Up to date there seems to be but little doubt as to what that power is.—Haverhill Gazette.

The brains of our regular officers, trained in the severe school of West Point and in arduous service on Western mountains and prairies, save the lives of their men. It would be well for the British if they had Lawtons and Schawns in command of their troops in South Africa.—Boston Journal.

In the end England, with her millions, must of course succeed, and the best thing she can do after that is to hire some Transvaal burgher to teach the art of war to her shoulder-strapped gentry who, having chased a few bushmen in the wilds of Africa, have ever since been strutting about thinking they were soldiers.—Manchester Mirror.

It may be of interest to the little ones, (of course all others already know it) to learn that "Spion Kop," which the English found too hot to hold, means literally "Spy hill," or as it might be put, "Lookout mountain." But it was only an insignificant skirmish which occurred on Spion Kop in comparison with our great battle of Lookout mountain, the "battle among the clouds."—Kennebec Journal.

This practice of underestimating the prowess of a foe is not new to Great Britain. She did it in the American revolution, and the penalty was defeat. The Boers are in a far better condition to resist a foe than were the American colonists. They are rich, the Americans were poor. They are abundantly supplied with all the required munitions of war, and, as were the Americans, they are fighting with rights on their side.—Boston Traveler.

UNSIGHTLY ADVERTISING.

A Movement Started to Make the Evil a Costly One.

For some time past there has been more or less fault found with the extent to which advertising on dead walls, rocks, fences, buildings and boards, has been carried on, and many have often condemned the spirit of advertisers who in their reckless ambition to get the names of their cure all before the eyes of the public have defaced and ruined whatever beauty the landscape or the city may have enjoyed.

At last a scheme has been devised which, if adopted and followed out by cities, will do away with, or materially reduce in number, the unsightly advertising signboards which have become so numerous in cities during recent years. It is not strange that the plan should have first been adopted by the most artistic city in the world, and therefore it is not with surprise that we hear that the municipal council of Paris has decided to impose a heavy tax on all advertising signboards in that city.

Advertising is all right in its proper place, but when every available space on buildings, fences, railway stations, etc., is covered it has become deemed proper in some localities that steps should be taken in the interests of the city to protect its appearance. It is proposed to make the advertisers pay their share of the taxes that are now paid wholly by real estate owners. Every foot of advertising on boards of buildings would be taxed under the proposed Paris plan in order to relieve the property holders of some of their heavy burden.

If the scheme causes a diminution in the number of the unsightly signs it will have accomplished the work that is hoped for it.

KEHOE WON IT.

Very nearly one hundred pool enthusiasts gathered at the Rockingham billiard parlors on Monday evening, the 29th inst., to watch the matched game of pool between W. J. Kehoe and Frank Woods. They played a hundred point game, even, and Kehoe won by the close score of 100 to 93, although Woods led him from the start right up almost to the finish.

VERY HIGH TIDE.

The tide of Monday morning, the 29th inst., was the highest for a year, coming up over almost all the wharves. The South mill pond was so full that the cellars of the residences along Richards avenue were invaded by the water.

BRACHMAN'S PILLS for Stomach and Liver Ills.

GOVERNMENT SHIPBUILDING.

Another Powerful Influence Believes Government Should Do It.

The New York Journal Wants Work For The Brooklyn Navy Yard.

Portsmouth Yard Must Celebrate Centennial by Laying of a Keel.

The proposition that the United States government build as many as possible of its new warships in the navy yards and independent of contractors, which was recently inaugurated in the Herald, has found a valuable friend in the powerful New York Journal, which has also begun the agitation and in no unmisleading terms, characteristic of the great daily, advocates that the government take a hand in the work and giving good reasons for its position on the question, which, it will be recognized, the Herald has already called attention to.

The matter is of vital importance to the citizens of this locality and the Herald intends to do all in its power to have the keel of a warship laid at this navy yard as a fitting celebration of the centennial of the establishment of the best naval station on this coast. It is greatly encouraged by the support it is receiving in the matter, as its readers have seen.

The Journal's reasons for wanting some of this work at the Brooklyn navy yard will apply to the situation at the Portsmouth yard. It would mean better ships and more in line with the principles of the government. It would be in harmony with the purposes of the navy yards and give employment to the more skilled laborers employed in the yards at better wages and establish confidence in their abilities.

It is only a question of time when most of such work will be done in the yards and the sooner the question is decided, the better for the government, the wage earners and the character of the new navy.

The Journal of Monday morning says in its editorial column:

The United States government will soon award contracts for the construction of a number of new ships of various classes for our navy.

There are adequate facilities in at least three navy yards for the building of a number of these vessels. Why should not the government take a hand in this work, instead of allowing contractors to reap a profit which reduced wages would bring at private yards?

The building of one or more of the proposed warships in the Brooklyn navy yard would give steady employment to hundreds of worthy working men who are now living on odd jobs. It would also stimulate trade of all kinds within a radius of miles from the construction docks.

Why not let our public establishments keep their hands in and make the government in a measure independent of contractors?

It must be admitted that one of these three yards mentioned by the Journal as having adequate facilities for the construction of at least one of the new ships is the Portsmouth navy yard. The eminent naval authorities who have supported this yard leaves no doubt but the Journal writer had this station in mind when he specified the number where there were such facilities for construction.

The Herald welcomes the addition to the exponents of the construction of American warships by American work at the government yards.

POLICE COURT.

Two Young Men Before Judge Emery for Assault.

A trifling affair between two young men on Saturday evening resulted in a slugging match and a consequent police court this morning before Judge Emery.

Patrick Powers and Thomas Murphy were using a bicycle pump at a Market street plumbing establishment and Powers pumped air in Murphy's ear. Murphy didn't like the idea of being made pneumatic and "busted" the pump over Powers' head. Murphy also had his face punctured during the mixup.

Judge Emery fined each $3 and costs of $5.36, which was suspended, as both have a very good reputation and promised to have no further trouble.

"THE LOSS OF GOLD IS GREAT."

The loss of health is more. Health is lost by neglecting to keep the blood pure, but it is regained by purifying, enriching and vitalizing the blood with the great health restorer, Hood's Sassa-parilla. Thousands who thought health had been permanently lost have been made perfectly well by taking this great medicine. Your experience may be the same.

Hood's Pills are gentle, yet always effective.

CARD OF THANKS.

I take this opportunity of expressing my sincerest appreciation of the sympathy and kindly favors rendered me during my recent affliction. I would especially thank the members of Star lodge of Odd Ladies, and the Moses H. Goodrich and Col. Sise engine companies. To all my friends, however, who in any way tried to lighten my sorrow, I give this public notice of my gratitude. FRED S. KNOWLES.

WORKING NIGHT AND DAY.

REPORT NOT CORRECT.

The report sent here from Somerville on Monday that Attorney Herbert J. Willard had died there that morning was denied this morning in a telephone message to J. Edward Pickering from Mr. Willard's brother.

OBSEQUIES.

The funeral services over the remains of Richard O'Day were held at the undertaking rooms of W. P. Miskell on Market street this afternoon, the Rev. Father Craelon officiating. The interment was in St. Mary's cemetery.

ALL NEXT WEEK.

The famous Cora Dayton's Southern Stock company will be the great attraction at Music hall next week. This is America's greatest repertoire company and includes some of the cleverest people before the public.

It's folly to suffer that horrible plague of the night, itching piles. Doan's Ointment cures, quickly and permanently. At any drug store, 50 cents.

WAGON ON THE TRACK.

Electric Plow Smashes it to Kindling Wood.

Some time between the hours of four and five o'clock, Monday morning, some person or persons placed a heavy wagon across the electric car track near the White Rock house in Epping and it was totally destroyed by the snow plow. The wagon belonged to William Small and was in the carriage house back of the main house. The plow had just been down over the road as far as Rye Center and was on the way back. It was so dark the motorman did not see the obstruction until too late and the ram of the plow struck the wagon fair and square splintering it to kindling wood.

Marshal Entwistle made an investigation and will endeavor to probe the matter to the bottom. It was a contemptible trick and the perpetrators will be made to suffer if discovered.

SARAH FOWLER PLUMER.

Death of an Estimable Lady at the Rockingham.

Sarah Fowler Plumer, an old and highly esteemed resident of Epping, died at her winter apartments at the Rockingham in this city, Monday evening, after a short illness.

Deceased was taken with pneumonia about two weeks ago and on account of her advanced age, failed rapidly, ending in her death shortly after six o'clock Monday evening.

She always resided in Epping on the old Plumer estate, except for the past few winters, which she has passed in this city with her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Bacon, at the Rockingham. The latter was with her when she died and is the only survivor of the family. The lady will be taken to Epping for burial.

INJURIES WERE FATAL.

Little Maude White Died at the Cottage Hospital This Morning.

Little Maude White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin White of Bow street, died at the Cottage hospital at 8 o'clock this morning, as the result of being terribly scalded at their home Saturday evening. The little one's death came as a relief from terrible suffering.

She was about seventeen months old. The remains were cared for by Undertaker W. P. Miskell.

BOWLING.

The Marines and Knights of Columbus were the competing teams in the city bowling league, on Monday evening, and they put up a very interesting sample of the sport for the delectation of the crowd that had gathered at the alleys. The score was as follows:

BOATSWAIN HILL'S LECTURE.

Under the auspices of the Young People's Christian Union of the Universalist church, Chief Boatswain W. H. Hill, U. S. N., gave his interesting lecture on the battle of Santiago and the destruction of Cervera's fleet on Monday evening, in Peirce hall, before a large and cultured audience.

Chief Boatswain Hill took part in this famous battle, being on the U. S. S. Brooklyn, and held the close attention of his audience by his vivid account of the fight.

The lecture was finely illustrated by W. I. Trafton with his stereopticon.

HAULING SLEEPERS FOR THE RYE EXTENSION.

The work of hauling the sleepers for the Rye extension of the Portsmouth electric railroad, was commenced on Monday, the 29th inst. It is expected that about fifty car loads will have to be handled. Messrs. Killoran, the contractors, have several teams engaged hauling from the North Hampton station. The process of drilling the bolt holes has already been done at North Hampton.
